

Eight Die In Plane Crash In Indiana

Wreckage Is Buried In Mud

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Six executives of a Chicago business firm and two crew members were killed Tuesday when a twin-engine company plane crashed on an Indiana farm while attempting an emergency landing.

The plane literally buried itself in muddy land.

State police said there was a remote possibility that a ninth body was buried underneath the wreckage.

An official passenger list, however, gave the names of only eight people.

Eleven minutes out of Louisville's Standfield Field, the pilot made routine radio contact with the tower, giving no indication of trouble.

A private pilot, John Vissing, had telephoned police before the crash that a plane was in trouble and circling for an emergency landing.

Six of the victims were executives of the Crane Co. of Chicago, on their way to Louisville to attend a convention of the Heating, Piping and Air Conditioners National Assn. The other two were crewmen.

The company identified them as:

J. A. McMurry, director of branches.
J. A. Dwyer, vice president.
George L. Erwin, vice president.

Charles E. Towner, assistant to the vice president in charge of heating.
G. G. Lindholm, a departmental manager.
Fred J. Wilkey, special representative.

Randy Mulherin, pilot.
Robert Robinette, copilot and non-in-law of Mulherin.

A light rain was falling but visibility was good.

The plane barely missed one farm house before it clipped the top of the trees and plunged nose-down into an open field, surrounded by several houses. The wreckage was almost directly under the tops of two sheared trees.

35% Corn Planted In State, Most Plowing Done

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Thousands of Illinois farmers are planting corn, the State-Federal Agriculture departments said Tuesday in a survey of the progress of farm activity.

In western, central and eastern areas where weather was favorable 40 per cent of the seeding job is done, but over-all the figure is about 35 per cent.

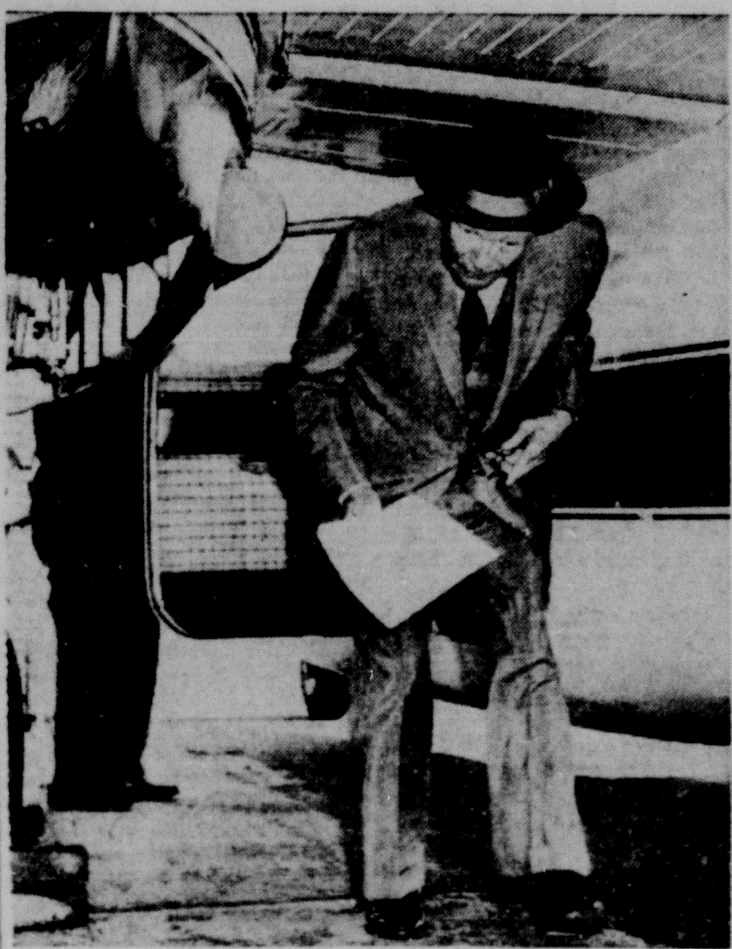

Plowing is complete except for scattered fields at the north and south tips of the state.

Close to 20 per cent of the soy-bean crop has been planted.

Ike Leads Kefauver In Nebraska Poll

OMAHA (AP) — President Eisenhower outdrew Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) in first returns Tuesday night from Nebraska's presidential preference primary election.

In 41 precincts, including a number where vote counting still was in progress, Eisenhower had 2,340 votes, to 1,349 for Kefauver. Adlai Stevenson, a write-in Democrat, received 17 votes and there were scattered other write-ins, mostly on the Democratic ticket.

Ousted Lutheran Minister Likes Newspaper Job

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — An expelled Lutheran minister said Tuesday night he likes his new job as a newspaper reporter "very much" and intends to make journalism his life career.

George P. Crist, 31-year-old former pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Durham, Wis., said preaching and reporting the news "are a great deal similar," adding:

"I feel I can say what needs to be said with as much truth while working as a newspaper reporter as I did when I was a minister."

"I think there's as much need for honest preaching as there is for honest reporting."

He took a job six weeks ago as a general assignment reporter for the Quincy Herald-Whig. The former minister said he doesn't intend to return to the pulpit except as a "part time layman preacher."

Husband Of Woman Missing For Year Now Disappears

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The puzzling case of the vanishing Scotts Tuesday took its place as one of the most intriguing police stories in this city's history.

Just a year ago Wednesday Mrs. Evelyn T. Scott, 63, a wealthy, attractive widow with a keen enjoyment of the social whirl, dropped from sight.

Tuesday her husband, J. Ewing Scott, 59, a tall, distinguished investment counselor, was listed officially as missing when he failed to appear for arraignment on charges connected with his wife's disappearance.

A manhunt spreading across the nation and into Mexico has been launched for Scott.

Although no one has seen Mrs. Scott for a year now, her disappearance did not come to public attention until two months ago when a document was filed in Superior Court.

It was a petition entered by Mrs. Scott's brother, E. Raymond Throsby, asking that he be appointed trustee of his sister's estate, estimated at $600,000. Buried in the legal terminology was the kernel of mystery that has since sprouted so vigorously.

His sister's absence, said Throsby, had not been satisfactorily explained by Scott.

Filing of the petition touched off an investigation that disclosed, among other things, that Scott had offered several different explanations of what happened to his wife.

To police, he said that his wife was given to frequent and unexplained absences and that was why he did not become alarmed when she suddenly vanished from their $75,000 home on May 16, 1955, after sending him on a shopping trip.

He still loves her and hopes she will return, he told them.

But friends of the popular, party-loving Mrs. Scott informed police that they had been told she had fallen ill and been placed in a sanitarium, that she had become an alcoholic, or that she had left him after a family fight, police learned.

In fact it was her friends, who knew Mrs. Scott as a gay, healthy, cultured woman and were thus unwilling to credit Scott's stories of her failing health and heavy drinking habits, who finally brought her disappearance to the attention of authorities. Scott never did file a missing-person report.

Scott vanished shortly after the county grand jury indicted him on 13 counts of forgery and grand theft based on his handling of his missing wife's estate.

Syngman Rhee Reelected To Serve Third Term As Korea's President

SEOUL (AP) — Syngman Rhee Wednesday won his third term as president of South Korea on the basis of incomplete but conclusive returns from Tuesday's presidential election.

But the 81-year-old president was trailing a dead candidate in a surprisingly heavy protest vote in the capital city of Seoul itself.

With 3,090,700 ballots counted over the nation — almost half of the vote cast — Rhee had a commanding margin over ex-Communist Cho Bong Am, his only live opponent.

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (AP) — A number of nuns were reported killed Tuesday night when an unidentified aircraft crashed into a convent near the village of Orleans, Ont., about seven miles east of here. A local radio station placed the number of dead at between 25 and 50.

The crash occurred at the Ville St. Laurent convent, housing about 100 members — most of them elderly — of the Order of Grey Nuns.

The Royal Canadian Air Force station at nearby Rockcliffe immediately began a check to determine whether any of its planes were missing.

Traffic Accidents Biggest Killer Of Military Men

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents are the biggest killer by far among America's military personnel, the Illinois State Medical Society was told Tuesday.

Col. Harvey C. Sloum, chief of anesthesia and operative service, Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, said three out of four fatal injuries to military personnel in the United States last year were caused by traffic accidents.

There were 455 such deaths, 74 per cent of the total.

He said approximately 7 per cent of the traffic accident deaths involved the use of military vehicles and 93 per cent privately owned cars.

"While the military is making a maximum effort to safeguard personnel on active duty, it cannot control the use and abuse of privately owned cars during off-duty hours," he said.

Unions Picket Circus; Report No Disturbance

BOSTON (AP) — You paid your money and took your choice Tuesday as two circuses competed for customers in Boston.

The opening day matinee for Ringling Bros. — Barnum and Bailey's "Greatest Show on Earth" at the 14,000-seat Boston Garden was viewed by an estimated 10,000 persons, according to Harry Davies, Ringling official.

Cross-town, at the 8,000-seat Boston Arena, the American Guild of Variety Artists circus sponsored by two unions at odds with the Ringling group, moved into its second day. Official attendance at the afternoon performance was 500 adults and 1,100 children.

All children under 12 accompanied by an adult are admitted free to the 25-act one-ring show sponsored by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and the AGVA. Proceeds, union officials said, will go to charity.

Pickets were scattered at entrances to the Garden, but police reported no disturbances.

Both unions picketed Madison Square Garden in New York during the Ringling 5½-week stand there after owner John Ringling North rejected the unions' bid to represent circus employees.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR NEXT 30 DAYS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The southern quarter of the nation and the West Coast states will have temperatures averaging above seasonal normals during the next 30 days, the Weather Bureau predicted Tuesday.

The bureau's forecast added: "Below normal temperatures are predicted over the Great Lakes, Northeast, Northern Plains and Central Plateau. In other areas, mean temperatures should be near normal."

"Rainfall is expected to exceed normal in the Missouri and Mississippi valleys and the Great Lakes region. Subnormal amounts are indicated west of the Continental Divide and in the Southeast and near normal elsewhere."

Cancer is not contagious.

National police said unofficial returns counted by 7:30 a.m. gave Rhee 2,227,509 and Cho 889,242, with 793,197 invalid.

Election officials said the bulk of the invalid ballots were for P.H. Shinicky, the Democratic party candidate and Rhee's long-time political foe. Shinicky died of a cerebral hemorrhage while campaigning May 5.

In Seoul balloting, Rhee got only 173,869 votes compared with 237,442 invalid ballots. Cho had 102,301 in Seoul.

The bulk of the vote still uncounted is from rural areas, where lies Rhee's greatest political strength.

Korean election laws made no provision for removing Shinicky's name from the ballot after his death. His Democratic party leaders urged followers to vote for him as a protest against Rhee's two administrations and Rhee's Liberal party.

Five-Year-Old One-Legged Girl To Get New Home

CHICAGO (AP) — The family of crippled Patricia Ann Form, 5, got the good news Tuesday that they soon will have a new home.

That means an end to living in motels and a summer cottage at Wauconda as they have since fire burned out their apartment March 29.

Judge Robert J. Dunne of Probate Court authorized the guardian of Patricia's $200,000 trust to buy a new home in the girl's name near suburban Glenview.

The tri-level brick and redwood four-bedroom house will cost $24,000. The court order requires that her parents, Harry and Anna Marie, 28 and 23, pay the little girl's estate $110 a month rent. Besides Patricia the Forms have another daughter, Virginia, 3, and a son, William, 2. Form is a radio repairman.

In October 1954 Patricia was hit by a city garbage truck and lost a leg. She won a $200,000 judgment against the city. Because the city cannot pay the judgment until February 1957 it will have to pay 5 per cent interest.

To meet current expenses the Forms have been permitted to borrow from the trust. These include $30,000 for medical care for her and $15,000 toward the house. The family expects to move in within two months.

Steel Workers To Make 22 Demands From Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steel Workers Wage Policy Committee Tuesday handed union negotiators a draft of 22 demands to be made on a busy, profit-making steel industry in 1956 contract bargaining.

The demands touch on almost every phase of the existing contract and among other things seek a "substantial" wage increase, premium pay for Saturday and Sunday work, and supplemental unemployment benefits.

USW President David J. McDonald said the program is "reasonable" in view of the steel industry's present profit record. Most of the big basic producers reported record earnings for the first quarter of the year.

The 170-member Wage Policy Committee met in secret session for two days to formalize the demands. The committee did not put a dollar and cents value on the package.

The demands will be presented to 172 basic steel firms and iron ore mining companies whose contracts expire at midnight June 30. The union would be free to strike then if agreements are not reached.

The union demands cover 650,000 workers in the basic steel industry. They now earn an average of $2.47 an hour. The present contract provides for six holidays with pay and a modified union shop with an escape clause.

U.S. Must Keep Guard Up, Dulles, Wilson Declare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretaries Dulles and Wilson declared Tuesday the United States must keep its guard up despite Russia's announced intention to slash its armed forces by 1,200,000 men.

Dulles expressed the view the cut would not materially reduce the Soviets' power to wage atomic war and might even increase it. Men taken out of uniform could be put to work making nuclear weapons, the secretary of state said.

Secretary of Defense Wilson said the Russian move would not, by itself, "justify any appreciable change in our present military strength." Nor, he said, would it justify changes "in our present programs for cooperating with our allies in the defense of the Free World."

Similar views were voiced by officials of the Air Force.

Dulles said the United States "welcomes" the Soviet announcement "if this proves to be an evidence of an intent to forego the use of force in international affairs."

The statements of the two Cabinet members were weighted on the cautionary side. Both appeared to be concerned lest the Soviet move generate too much of a sense of security in this country or among its allies.

Whether their views were shared throughout the administration could not be known until other officials found occasion to express their opinion publicly.

Secretary Wilson, in a statement at his news conference, said that the Moscow announcement "would seem to be a step in the right direction, but it alone will probably not appreciably alter Soviet military power, nor does it clearly disclose what their intentions might be."

He told a questioner that "one way they could demonstrate their intentions" would be to subscribe to the United States proposal for mutual inspection of military might.

Dulles spoke out at a news conference while two Air Force officials, testifying on Capitol Hill, said they saw in the Russian announcement nothing that would materially weaken the Red air force's atomic striking power of the means of increasing it.

Secretary of the Air Force Quarles and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, joined Dulles in urging that the Soviet announcement of plans be treated with extreme caution until all the facts are known.

They told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee the Russian move called for no change in the Air Force's request for 16½ billion dollars in the next fiscal year. Quarles said only 30,000 of the 1,200,000 men apparently are scheduled for dismissal from Russia's air divisions. He said the cut "would appear to be a belated new look" by the Russians at their military situation.

Twining said he saw no indication the Russians were cutting aircraft production. He said the manpower cut could be taken "maybe" as a hint the Soviets are trying to encourage world peace. But he said "we should be careful to look at it from all angles" and shouldn't be led into disclosing too many details of this country's military strength.

Convict, 68, Free After 46 Years In Prisons

CLINTON, Ill. (AP) — A 68-year-old convict Tuesday observed his first full day of freedom after spending the last 46 years mostly shuttling between prisons in six states and three foreign countries.

Until James P. Duty won his release from Menard Prison Monday on his own handwritten petition for a writ of habeas corpus, he had been jailed almost without interruption since 1910.

Duty, now white-haired and weighing about 100, said he "wasn't mad at anyone" after Circuit Judge Grover W. Watson granted the writ that gave him his freedom.

Menard Warden Ross Randolph described Duty as a "very egotistical man who hated to be contradicted." He said the elderly convict told varied stories about his background and once claimed to be a lawyer.

Randolph said he doubted the claim because Duty "was in prison and off again for the last 46 years and wouldn't have had time to go to law school."

A Needed Award

Uncle Sam has come up with a prize that pales the $64,000 Question payoff. And rightly it should.

It's the Enrico Fermi Award presented by the Atomic Energy Commission for an outstanding technical or scientific achievement related to the development, use or control of atomic energy.

This year Dr. John von Neumann, noted scientist and member of the AEC, is the first recipient.

Besides a medal and a citation, he collects $50,000 which is tax free. The most anyone can win by answering the $64,000 Question is $27,808 after the federal government takes its share.

Dr. Von Neumann had to be a bit more than a quiz kid to take away the foot. He was given the award for his outstanding contribution to the theory, design and construction of fast computing machines. These are the electronic masterminds that have become indispensable tools of research and development in many phases of atomic energy and its applications.

Fifty grand might sound like a whopping big sum to give away at the taxpayers' expense, but we believe the authorization for the award by Congress is worth every cent.

For it is time more recognition than a pat on the back be given to those who devote their lives to forging the way in the field of science.

And perhaps it will be the incentive for other men, here and abroad, to follow the path of the late Dr. Enrico Fermi whose pioneering work led the way to the controlled release of nuclear energy.

Thinking It Over—

By Robert L. Dittenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

Perhaps it is only an optical illusion, but the trees in a dense forest always seem to grow straight and tall. They seem to extend upward in straight lines rather than the trees growing in open areas.

Someone has said that the phenomenon takes place because nature requires light to reach the leaves. Since the trees grow in larger part because of the chemical manufacturing process which takes place in the leaves, these leaves must receive the rays of the sun.

Logically the trees must grow tall so that the leaves can have the required amount of energy from the sky above. Nature has a wonderful way of caring for her needs and of contriving workable processes on a healthy basis.

Human beings can learn a great deal from walking beside the giant trees of the forest. The first things which happen to the hiker in a forest are that he stands straight, breathes deeper and feels more invigorated than when he entered the forest.

When we find ourselves surrounded with human problems and temptations, we too should grow above our surroundings. We should seek to get our heads into the sunlight above the darkness.

We ought to grow toward God who is the source of spiritual, emotional, and mental energy. As we reach toward the creator, we shall find miracles taking place in our own lives.

We can grow. We can develop. We can become more nearly perfect if we rise to the higher spiritual values which are available to all who really want them.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"The same thing happens to all performers. First you're up, then you're down, then you're up again. It all goes in cycles."

This was Red Skelton explaining his renaissance in the last year. This Tuesday night TV show, which had been in the doldrums, once again ascended into the top ranks in the audience ratings. Now he's making his first movie in four years—"Public Pigeon No. 1."

You can see the results in Red's expansive kisser. He's less frantic. He exudes the warm glow of success. But he can be just as hilarious as ever.

"How can you say I ain't been workin' in pictures?" he demands. "After all, I had a day's work in 'Susan Slept Here' last year. And this year I did a day's work in 'Around the World in 80 Days.' I will admit this my first big part since I left MGM. Boy, that last one was some picture! It was the only movie in history that hissed the audience for being so stupid as to pay money for it. They were afraid to play it at the Grauman's Chinese—afraid the footprints would walk out."

How does he explain the upswing of his TV show?

Aside from the fact that stars' careers go in cycles, he cited:

"This year we have two swell sponsors that are dignified and that do not interfere with the show. Both those factors mean a lot."

"What ruined me was too much interference. I always had to fit somebody's else's idea of what I should be like. They had me playing every skit as Willie Lump-Lump."

NEW YORK (AP)—True angels may never become weary in Paradise.

But actresses who play angelic rolls do sometimes get good and sick of them. One of them right now is Martha Scott, who is suffering from a bad case of too much sweetness and light.

Martha has been wearing wings on stage and screen for some years now, and she'd like to shed them for a while.

I have known Miss Scott from the time she was a schoolgirl studying biology in Kansas City—book biology, that is. When I met her for lunch the other day I told her, "Martha, you're still just as pretty as the girl next door."

Well, I meant it as a compliment, and a true one. Martha has a fragile beauty that never fades. But my remark had the same effect on her as if I had stepped on her small toes with my big size 10 shoes.

"You're as bad as all the others," she said reproachfully, her hazel-green-blue eyes clouding.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that little-girl-next-door business," she said. "I've had about all I can take of being the little girl next door. I want to try playing that mean but fascinating lady who lives in the penthouse."

Martha, who actually does hail originally from a small Missouri town with the unlikely name of Gee's Creek, started her radio career as "a ten-buck scream" in a ghost story starring Orson Welles.

Earlier, as a member of a Shakespearean repertory at the Chicago World's Fair, she had enjoyed blackening her teeth to play one of the witches in "MacBeth."

The sweetness-and-light blight descended on her when she first starred on Broadway as Emily Webb, the sweet doomed young heroine of Thornton Wilder's play, "Our Town."

It deepened when Hollywood starred her in "Miss Bishop," a sugary vehicle in which she played an old maid schoolteacher who turned her back on love, forsaking a birds-and-bees adventure for a life of service among the ABC's.

Strangers who meet her still often exclaim in pleased surprise, "Why it's Miss Bishop."

This makes Martha want to say a bad word.

"How would you like it, if every time you stepped in a taxi, the driver called you Miss Bishop?" she asked.

Frankly, the thought never had occurred to me.

Many performers don't mind being typed at all. They can enjoy a lazy, financially secure life playing variants of the same role over and over.

Not Miss Scott, who is a skilled and talented craftsman.

"Money isn't security," she said. "You have to figure out what you really want to do with your few hours on earth, and it does come down to a matter of hours—even minutes."

"How can an actress grow in her trade unless she plays a variety of roles that demand more and more from her? The trouble is that producers sometimes are afraid to take a chance. They're afraid the public might not like you in a new role."

But Martha is more than willing to take chances. Just recently she has been in her latest picture, "The Ten Commandments," she plays Moses' mother.

In a recent Robert Montgomery TV show she strayed even further from her real life character. She portrayed the self-centered, possessive, over-sexed wife of a plantation owner, who destroyed the lives of all those around her.

"I never had more fun," said Martha, smiling.

The results were satisfying, too. Starred producers flooded her with three big TV bids, a Broadway play offer, and two invitations to do movies. She feels that at last she's on the way to getting rid of the "goody-goody" label.

If you should bump into Martha accidentally, she won't mind at all if you mistake her for either Marilyn Monroe or Mother Macchree. But, please, don't call her Miss Bishop. Martha doesn't live there any more.

Social Security System Fights Off Handout Ideas

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Trying to get something for nothing is standard operating procedure on most government handout programs. It provides the major catch in some 40 proposed amendments to the social security law, now being considered by the U. S. Senate.

Strangely enough, the people who run the social security system would still like to keep it solvent.

This explains why they are opposing such things as increased federal grants to the states for the needy poor and a food stamp plan, tacked on to the present law.

Last year the House passed amendments which would, among other things, lower from 65 to 62 the age at which women could retire and start collecting old-age insurance. Also, under the House-passed bill, totally disabled people would be given retirement pay at age 50.

BOTH PROPOSALS are first steps in recognizable campaigns to lower the retirement age for both men and women to 60, and to remove all age limits on total disability benefits.

Everyone sympathizes with the humanitarian aims of these proposals. But it is recognized that they would cost hundreds of millions of dollars. The House therefore approved increasing the payments by employers and employees.

The present rate is now 2 percent on the first $4,200 of earnings, or $84 a year for both employer and employee. For the self-employed it's 3 percent, or $126.

To cover the two major benefit increases, the House raised the payments to 2½ percent, or $105 for employer and employee. For the self-employed 3½ percent, or $157.50. These increases would raise an extra 1½ billion dollars a year.

This gets into important money, both as a total, and as a contribution from nearly 60 million employers and employees.

In many cases, people are now paying more in social security premiums than they are in income taxes.

THIS TREND will continue in the years ahead. If Congress should further lower income taxes by increasing the exemption $100 or $200 a year, it would be increasingly true.

Social security payments are already scheduled to increase one-half of one per cent a year every five years to 1975. They would then be 4½ per cent or $189 for employers and employees; 6½ per cent or $283.50 for the self-employed. Total collections would be 19 billion a year.

Social security system income and outgo are now practically in balance. There is every reason to continue sound financing.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion B. Folsom is opposing the expansion of benefits faster than social security collections justify. He also opposes expansion in any manner that runs counter to existing life trends. But he is being beaten over the head by pressure groups that want to get added benefits without paying for them.

ON THE MATTER of lowering the retirement age of women Folsom points out that women now live about six years longer than men, on the average. Last year more than a million women of 60 to 64 were gainfully employed. The average age at which women now retire and start drawing old-age benefits from insurance is 68. This is a half-year less than retirement age for men, on the average.

The argument advanced against this is that most husbands are several years older than their wives. It is claimed that men can't afford to retire at 65 because the old-age insurance payments for one aren't big enough to support two.

The men therefore have to work till their wives become 65 and they can both get old-age insurance. If women could retire at age 62, the claim is that more husbands would retire at age 65, instead of working till 68.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sidney Hatkin was lucky. Left hanging in midair by the government—jobless and under a cloud—he found someone to fight his case in public. Then he got his job back.

It's doubtful he would have been reinstated if he hadn't asked the help of former Sen. Harry P. Cain and if Cain hadn't made his case public.

Hatkin's case points up what appears to be unnecessary delay and carelessness for individuals by the government in clearing and reinstating—or firing—government employees suspended as security risks.

Hatkin, 40, married and with children, was suspended as a security risk in February 1955 by the Air Force where he worked as a security board.

It took the Air Force from then until Saturday to decide whether it was safe to let Hatkin return to work. It did so only after Cain, Washington Republican and member of the government's Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB), made a speech about Hatkin's troubles.

Except for a few weeks, Hatkin could not get a job during the 14 months of his suspension. He hadn't been fired as a security risk, but he hadn't been cleared, either. He was in a state of suspension.

On Saturday Secretary of the Air Force Quarles announced he had offered Hatkin a job with the Air Force doing non-sensitive work.

Not near secrets, Hatkin hopes for full clearance later.

Why did it take a year after the board heard the charges against him for action in his case? The Air Force, through a Pentagon public relations man, says it takes time to handle these cases.

In a speech in New York a week ago Saturday, Cain talked of Hatkin's case without mentioning his name. Hatkin's identity was soon learned.

Cain, one of the most severe critics of President Eisenhower's program for getting security risks out of the government, cited Hatkin as an example of what he said happens to hundreds of suspended employees.

He said he knows of 416 government employees who were suspended as risks, and later reinstated, but only after some of them had waited an average of eight to nine months for a final verdict.

It is doubtful Hatkin would have been reinstated without Cain's open statement of his case. Last February a Russian employed in the Soviet Embassy contacted Hatkin after the latter had put an advertisement in a newspaper, seeking a job. The Russian asked him to gather information about the aircraft industry.

Hatkin notified the FBI at that time but two weeks ago—a week before Cain made his speech—the Air Force notified Hatkin it had tentatively decided to fire him as a security risk.

Better Medical Exams Can Prevent Athletic Injuries

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Since vast numbers of our youth engage in competitive athletics it is most encouraging to find an increasing interest in protecting the health of those who do. My folder on this subject is getting thicker.

It was pointed out in one recent discussion of this subject that the effective prevention and treatment of athletic injuries is the joint responsibility of the participating physician, team sponsors, coach and his staff, and the players themselves. Emphasis should be on prevention.

"In case of head, neck or spine injury, or suspicion thereof, the player should be removed from play, placed at rest, and be given the immediate attention of a physician."

"Competition should take place only between teams of comparable ability, and playing seasons should be limited to reasonable duration."

"Contests should be selected, and rules and lengths of playing periods should be such that they will not overtax the physical abilities of the students concerned."

The Evaluation of a player's physical fitness to participate in a given sport should begin with a complete medical examination including the history of past illness.

This alone is not sufficient, since the particular features of the sport in question as well as the physical fitness of the candidate must be taken into consideration. In other words, the judgment with regard to participation in football might be different from that with regard to track.

I should like to quote two paragraphs from this particular article: "There is a significant and direct correlation between the experience of the coach and the incident of athletic injuries. The coach must be conscientious, willing to cooperate with the physician, and thoroughly experienced in all phases of his sport, including leadership, conditioning and first aid."

"The coach must be able to condition his players to achieve strength, speed, endurance, flexibility and relaxation, as well as impart to them the fundamentals and intricacies of his sport. He must know about, and be able to fit, protective equipment and special padding for injured, weak, or sore parts. Conditioning and protective equipment will diminish athletic injuries substantially."

Suggestions aimed at helping to make participation in sports safe and healthful were adopted some time ago by the National Committee on Standards for Boys Athletics. A few excerpts follow:

"A physician should be present

Glazed Ham, Cold Turkey Right for Large Buffet

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

A large wedding luncheon at home calls for careful planning and a written time table.

We asked Mrs. Beth Bailey McLean of Chicago, director of home economics department of Swift and Company, to tell us how she managed the buffet for 60 guests when her daughter Janet was married.

As to costs, Mrs. McLean says they will vary in different parts of the country and on the size of servings, also on time of year.

Here is her experienced advice: Select foods that can be prepared a day or two in advance with only rolls and coffee needing last-minute heating. Select and arrange the serving platters on the buffet table a week or more ahead of time. Consider the right size and shape. If color is used, keep the color scheme in mind for the dishes as well as the food. Paste a label on each platter and write on it the name of the food. Sketch the platter arrangement so that the last-minute placing of the food can be done quickly and in the planned sequence.

Set up small tables with linen, silver and glasses the day before. Cover with plastic cloths to keep free of dust and in place.

Roast an unstuffed 24 to 25-pound turkey one or two days before service. This size bird will require about 7 hours in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) Brush well with salad oil. Cool quickly.

Use a canned boneless ham. Cut a 12 to 13-pound ham into uniform 1-inch slices, then cut through the center lengthwise to make 60 to 70 servings. Tie the ham into shape with string and place it on a rack set over foil or a cookie sheet.

To glaze: Make 1-quart of strawberry flavored gelatin according to the package directions. Stir and cool until the gelatin is the thickness of coffee cream. Pour the gelatin over the cold ham to form a smooth glaze on top and on the sides.

Cut strawberries in half and arrange in a flower pattern on top of the ham. Pour half tea-spoon of gelatin over each berry. Let set until glaze is firm, then keep cold until service time. Slide the ham onto an oblong platter and garnish with tender lettuce or watercress.

The feature of wedding refreshments is the glorious wedding cake. This may be placed on the cleared buffet table for the ceremonial cutting of the first slice by the bride and groom. It is wise to have an experienced cake cutter finish the slicing.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Cold sliced boneless ham, casserole of diced creamed potatoes topped with crumbs and cheese, green beans with almonds, lettuce and tomato salad, apple or berry pie, coffee, tea, milk.

Changing His Name to Hers Isn't Apt to Become Popular

It was mighty generous of a certain Los Angeles bridegroom-to-be to go to court and change his last name to that of his fiancée so that when they married her name would remain the same.

The gentleman's reason for giving up his own name in favor of his future bride's was that she had made hers well-known as a top-ranking officer in the Army Nurse Corps.

But it isn't likely this modern switch will catch on. And for a very good and sound reason.

When a man and woman marry it doesn't matter who she was as a Miss. As a Mrs. her job is to help her husband make his name stand for something.

If she is willing to take his name it is because she is proud to wear it—and because she believes that it is a name she will be even more proud to wear as the years go by.

In fact, this taking a man's name is so important in the feminine mind that most girls, as soon as they get interested in a young man, start writing "Mrs." in front of his name just to see how it looks.

IT'S TRADITIONAL

Of course, a girl may have tried out a lot of names on paper before she actually changes her name—but that only goes to show how romantic she finds the idea of some day changing her name at the altar.

It's fine for a man to be so proud of his bride-to-be and so generous that he is willing to change his name to hers.

But probably most girls will always like the time-honored system best. For most girls look forward to the time when a man will ask them to take his name for life.

College Plans To Be Discussed By Springfield Men

The second in a series of several dinner meetings reporting progress on establishment of MacMurray College for men and considering educational standards which business and industry follow in employment and promotion of personnel was held Tuesday evening at the Illinois Country Club in Springfield.

Host for the occasion was Gail M. Wanless, Springfield realtor and trustee of MacMurray College. Speakers for the occasion included President Louis W. Norris of MacMurray College and A. C. Boock, general manager, A.P.S. - Chalmers Manufacturing Company, and William J. Mullaney, training director for Sangamo Electric Company, both of Springfield.

A number of business and industrial leaders of the Springfield area attended the meeting.

At a similar meeting in Chicago earlier this year, Robert E. Wilson, chairman of Standard Oil of Indiana, and Frederick M. Gilles, president of Acme Steel Company of Chicago, addressed a group of distinguished Chicago area business and industrial leaders. Milburn P. Akers, executive editor, Chicago Sun-Times, was host at the Chicago meeting.

Dinners also are planned for Peoria, Ill. and St. Louis, Mo., later this spring.

Defendant's Mother Injured; Fernandes Inquest Postponed

Injury of Mrs. Norma Johnson, 77, in a fall on the basement steps Monday night at her home, 1520 South Main street, has resulted in the indefinite postponement of an inquest into the death of her son-in-law, Harold D. (Harry) Fernandes, which had been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the circuit court room.

Mrs. Johnson is reported to have sustained a broken arm and neck injury when she fell down the stairs. She was removed to Our Saviour's hospital in the Cooney ambulance.

The aged woman was to have been a witness at the inquest into the death of Fernandes, a coal dealer, who was stabbed with a butcher knife last Thursday afternoon, May 10, at his home.

Mrs. Loretta Fernandes, 56, is at liberty under $3,000 bond awaiting grand jury action on a charge of manslaughter, in connection with her husband's death. She told county officials last Thursday that she drew a butcher knife out of a dishpan when her husband allegedly began to assault her, and struck twice.

Deputy Coroner Lloyd Markille, who was to have conducted the inquest Tuesday night at the court house, announced postponement of the official investigation because of Mrs. Johnson's injury.

"She was to have testified, because she was in the house when Fernandes met death," Markille said. "I don't know now when she will be able to testify."

Mrs. Fernandes said Monday night that she and another woman were sitting in the living room when they heard a loud crash. They hurried to the basement stairs and saw Mrs. Johnson at the bottom of the stairway. The ambulance was called and Mrs. Johnson was taken to the hospital, where X-rays were taken.

Reports from the hospital indicated that she spent a fair night.

While examination had not been completed, it was believed that one arm was fractured and she has a neck injury.

Rules Coal Firms Must Pay Tax On Sale To Utilities

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U.P.—Circuit Judge Dewitt S. Crow today ruled against coal companies who contend their sales to utilities should not be sale taxed because the coal is for resale as energy.

The State Revenue Department estimates that about one million dollars annually are involved under the current 2½ per cent state sales tax.

Farrand Coal Co. of Riverton filed a test suit against the State Revenue Department in 1953, contending that a sales tax on such sales was double taxation since utilities paid a 3 per cent tax on their gross receipts from the sale of energy.

More than two million dollars was paid under protest by coal companies. They also claimed another $800,000 paid before the suit commenced.

The theory of the retailers occupational tax law is that the sales tax applies to items bought by a person for his use or consumption but does not apply to items sold to a buyer for resale in some form as tangible personal property.

The coal companies argued that the utilities bought the coal for resale as energy. The State Revenue Department argued that the utility is the user of the coal, that energy cannot be packaged or identified.

Never before has Russia put such drive into her efforts to make the rest of the world relax.

For a year now she has been doing one thing after another to meet the Western demand that she show her intent by deeds.

Only once, by grasping the opportunity to inject her influence into the Middle East, has she let the old-expansionist policy take the spotlight from her peace offensive, though she has held back from any definitive settlements.

One thing the West had demanded was a peace treaty for Austria. After blocking it at every turn for years, she came across the top of her argument against big-power maintenance of military bases beyond their borders, she gave up her base in Finland. She relinquished some of her power in Manchuria, although the effect of this was dulled by the fact that the beneficiary was Red China, which Russia continues to arm.

She made peace with Yugoslavia.

To match leveling off of military preparedness in the United States and elsewhere, she cut her military manpower last year, and now, to offset the failure of recent disarmament talks in London, she has announced a further and much larger cut. She and the Communist bloc nevertheless retain something like a 2-1 edge in this department.

She has reached a fishing agreement with Japan designed to go into effect along with a peace treaty which she obviously intends, at long last, to negotiate.

No reliance can be placed on Russian deeds or words, however, as long as she is the frankly declared enemy of non-Communist countries. When she says, and means, "You can live as you please," freeing the territory she has seized as an industrial reservoir and a buffer zone, confidence in her intentions can begin to grow.

In the meantime the nations which have conducted "Operation Containment" are under great responsibility to provide every possible encouragement for the emergence of a tamed Russia.

Recover Body Of River Victim At Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN—The body of Franklin Demy, 25, of Browning, was recovered by the coast guard at noon Monday near the new Illinois river bridge. Demy's body had been missing since an outboard motor boat in which he was riding capsized in the Illinois river at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The accident was witnessed by three companions who were riding in another boat nearby. Attempts by Art Landis, Ray Landis, both of Beardstown, and Ronald Mallicoat, Rushville, to rescue Demy proved unsuccessful.

Authorities said the four men rented two boats at Beardstown for pleasure riding. Sunday's high winds reportedly was the cause of the accident.

Demy, who had recently returned from the service, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Demy of Browning. The body was taken to a funeral home at Astoria.

Jo Ann Shutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shutt of Alexander, was presented the Town Girls award as an active and representative student of the Jacksonville area girls. Barbara Brochouer, daughter of Mr. Beatrice Brochouer of Jacksonville, presented the award.

Receiving other awards were Mary Luh Williams of Hillsboro, Mo., the Austin prize for executive ability; Janice Closson of Manistee, Mich., the McLaughlin Memorial award; Ester Becker of Omro, Wis., choir prize; Burris Edwards of Middleboro, Mass., award for drama and speech—creative ability; Martha Zimmerman of Beardstown, Ill., the Reick sportsmanship award.

Eleanor Eberle of Valhalla, N.Y., Helen Lenz of Reno, Nev., and Lorene Helen Svahn of Fayette, Mo., were awarded membership in the National Collegiate Players, drama organization.

Phi Tau Epsilon Society was chosen as enacting the best freshman one-act play for its presentation of "The Rope."

Erect New Flag Pole In Front Of City Hall

Volunteering their services, members of the Jacksonville fire department have finished erection of a flag pole in front of the city hall and water and light office. A flag will be flown over the building for the first time in several years.

Alderman Mathews of the building committee announced the erection of the new flag pole at Monday night's council meeting. He expressed appreciation to the firemen who volunteered to do the job. Mathews said that Mrs. Harold McDougall, whose husband served on the department a number of years before his death, has offered a large flag for use on the new flag pole.

Investigation as to the cost of a rubber tire roller for use by the street department was reported by Alderman Kelly. He said the city has been offered a roller by the Illinois Road Contractors for $1,320, which was listed at $2,000 when it was new in June, 1953. On motion of Alderman Rowe, seconded by Alderman DeFrates, the council voted to authorize the highway department to buy the machine.

Discuss Dog Nuisance

A discussion on the control of dogs, not only those which slip their collars and flee the family reservation, but others which remain on the premises and dolefully tell their woes to the neighbors night and day, brought out a number of individual examples. Almost every member of the council had one or two instances to relate, where dogs had disturbed the peace of someone.

At least one instance was reported in which a person was bitten by a bulldog which sneaked under a fence. Alderman DeFrates of the health committee urged that dog owners comply with the law in all respects.

"This problem is not new," Mayor Hoagland commented. "We have it every year despite warnings and ordinances which cover the situation. In cases where the law is openly violated, legal action is the only solution."

Adopt Resolutions

A resolution was passed appropriating $51,902.09 from the municipal allotment of motor fuel taxes for payment of the city's share of special assessments on arterial streets, after motions by Aldermen Kelly and Sheerin. Another resolution of the same sort, appropriating $2,421.28, passed on motions by Aldermen Rowe and Fitzsimmons.

A report of City Treasurer Elma B. Cline showed a balance of $1,321.97 in the general fund as of April 30.

An ordinance prohibiting the planting of field corn within 100 feet of a residence, and within 30 feet of a street provided it is within 200 feet of a residence, was adopted on motions by Aldermen Allen and Sims.

City Attorney Bellatti said the former ordinance prohibited the planting of field corn within the city under any circumstances.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Never before has Russia put such drive into her efforts to make the rest of the world relax.

For a year now she has been doing one thing after another to meet the Western demand that she show her intent by deeds.

Only once, by grasping the opportunity to inject her influence into the Middle East, has she let the old-expansionist policy take the spotlight from her peace offensive, though she has held back from any definitive settlements.

One thing the West had demanded was a peace treaty for Austria. After blocking it at every turn for years, she came across the top of her argument against big-power maintenance of military bases beyond their borders, she gave up her base in Finland. She relinquished some of her power in Manchuria, although the effect of this was dulled by the fact that the beneficiary was Red China, which Russia continues to arm.

She made peace with Yugoslavia.

To match leveling off of military preparedness in the United States and elsewhere, she cut her military manpower last year, and now, to offset the failure of recent disarmament talks in London, she has announced a further and much larger cut. She and the Communist bloc nevertheless retain something like a 2-1 edge in this department.

She has reached a fishing agreement with Japan designed to go into effect along with a peace treaty which she obviously intends, at long last, to negotiate.

No reliance can be placed on Russian deeds or words, however, as long as she is the frankly declared enemy of non-Communist countries. When she says, and means, "You can live as you please," freeing the territory she has seized as an industrial reservoir and a buffer zone, confidence in her intentions can begin to grow.

In the meantime the nations which have conducted "Operation Containment" are under great responsibility to provide every possible encouragement for the emergence of a tamed Russia.

A HELPFUL HINT TO GAS HEAT CUSTOMERS:

Keep your furnace pilot on—and you'll
keep rust out!

Heating contractors tell us that one of the greatest causes of furnace replacement is rust. Even in a dry basement, the wet-and-dry summer periods can cause condensation and moisture in your furnace, leading to rust and corrosion. By leaving your pilot on, and the thermostat turned way down, you keep the air dry and eliminate rusting problems. The cost of operating the gas pilot is low—it is the cheapest possible rust insurance.

OTHER ADVANTAGES—When the furnace pilot is on—you have instant automatic heat whenever you want it. Unexpected cold weather, damp nights or sickness often bring a need for heat. If the gas pilot light is on—heat is immediately available at the turn of your thermostat. Turn the heat on—or off—at your convenience. And it's ready to go at the first sign of cold weather next fall.

Note: Air filters should be replaced before next heating season.

World's most popular POWER STEERING?

Right this way!

EVERY YEAR, more and more of the new cars sold are equipped with Power Steering. Many a man has bought it "for the wife"—then wondered how he ever got along without it.

And if you have in mind a new car with this increasingly popular feature, you ought to consider this fact:

Since the beginning of last year, Buick has sold far more new cars equipped with Power Steering* than any other car—over 20,000 more in 1955 alone.

That's the record—and the reasons for it are just as impressive.

Buick brings you In-Line Safety Power Steering. In addition to the one-finger ease of turning common to all such systems in varying degree, it has several distinct advantages.

It gives you surer, steadier, safer control at highway speeds—because it retains that good natural "feel" of the road. (That's something you really should compare.)

On the other hand, it gives you more power assist when you need it most—at crawl speeds and at full stop. For parking and other tight maneuvering, Buick's Power Steering makes wheel turning nearly twice as easy as other types of systems. (And that's by engineering computation.)

Add another plus: this Buick feature works through the new Buick front end—where a unique new geometry and steering linkage bring a sweet new response and a wonderfully easy handling and a surer "sense of direction" even to new Buicks not equipped with the power system.

So there you are—and here we are, waiting to prove it all to you.

Waiting, also, to let you try the new thrills to be had in Buick's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo—where getaway response and gas mileage both step up even before you switch the pitch.

And waiting to show you how the highest power yet, the sweetest ride yet and the boldest styling yet—all help to make this bright new beauty the Best Buick Yet.

Today is fine with us. How about you?

*Buick's In-Line Safety Power Steering is standard on Roadmaster and Super, optional at moderate extra cost on other series.
New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Hearing Ends On Ozark, N. Central New Route Issue

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—It will be several months before any decision can be reached on establishment of a north-south air route from the Quad Cities to Minneapolis, according to a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner who conducted a hearing here.

The hearing ended Monday after five days of testimony by some 40 witnesses. The parties to the hearing—North Central and Ozark Airlines—were given 30 days to file written briefs.

Three witnesses for Ozark occupied the stand Monday. North Central had completed its testimony previously.

Those testifying Monday were Capt. Julian Wiggins, superintendent of flight operations for Ozark; Hery L. Sweezy, Ozark traffic manager; and Francis M. Higgins, now director of advertising and publicity for Ozark and a former president of North Central.

Wiggins said Ozark could handle the proposed new route with aircraft it now has on hand. He added that Ozark has just started a modification project on all its planes which he said will increase their safety, add an average of 15 miles per hour to their speed and cut their operating cost by five cents a mile.

Sweezy said that if Ozark is awarded the route, it will be operated with St. Louis and Minneapolis as terminal sites, although the hearing is concerned with only the run from Minneapolis to the Quad Cities.

Ozark now operates from St. Louis to the Quad Cities.

Higgins argued that Ozark should be awarded the route because, he said, any of the cities south of Moline, Ill., can generate three times as much traffic for the route in a year as any of North Central's cities north of Minneapolis.

The Mobile Bears had the best winning streak in the Southern Assn. in 1955 and they won 10 straight baseball games.

BIG H-BOMB TEST MAY COME THURSDAY

USS MT. MCKINLEY (AP)—Unstable weather which has repeatedly postponed the United States' big H-bomb test appeared to be settling today with a possibility the blast could come off Thursday morning, U.S. time. The bomb is to be dropped from a B52 jet bomber over Namu Island of Bikini atoll.

Homicide Charged Against Driver In Fatal Crash

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP)—A reckless homicide charge was filed Monday by Granite City police against a 16-year-old driver involved in an accident Sunday in which a 9-year-old boy died and two other 9-year-olds were injured.

Police said the driver, David Gerald Crider, a Granite City High School freshman, was released on $2,500 bond on the homicide charge and $300 bond on five police court traffic charges.

Crider pleaded innocent when arraigned before Police Magistrate Andrew Gasparovic Jr. on charges of speeding, running two stop signs, failing to heed a police siren and not having a driver's license.

Preliminary hearing on the homicide charge was postponed until after the coroner's inquest into the death of the victim, Wayne Pruitt.

Kenneth Meyer is in St. Louis Children's Hospital, in serious condition, and the third boy, Robert Motes, was less seriously injured.

The car overturned early Sunday morning while Granite City police were pursuing it. Police quoted Crider as saying he placed an ignition jumper on the car his grandfather's and went for a ride, later picking up the younger boys.

USW Meet Again To Draft Demands For New Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The powerful wage policy committee of the United Steelworkers meets again today in hopes of determining demands the USW will present to the basic steel industry in coming contract negotiations.

After a session Monday of the 170-man committee, David J. McDonald, USW president, said he is hopeful that an agreement could be worked out with the steel industry "well in advance" of the June 30 contract expiration date.

The union's 39-member executive board unanimously approved contract proposals Monday and recommended that the wage policy committee adopt them.

Although provisions of the proposal were not disclosed, it is generally believed that a substantial wage increase, a supplemental unemployment benefit program, improved insurance benefits and premium pay for weekend work are included.

McDonald said the policy committee is "taking very seriously" a plan for Saturday and Sunday premium pay. He added that union demands will be based on the industry's current boom and reports of record profits.

If agreements are not reached with 172 basic steel firms by midnight June 30, the USW is free to call a strike of some 650,000 union members.

Another 550,000 USW members are employed in steel fabricating firms whose contracts expire later this year.

Steelworkers now earn an average of $2.47 hourly. They received a 15-cent hourly wage increase last year after a 12-hour strike.

SEEKS TO DIVORCE

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedienne Martha Raye has been served with a notice that her fifth husband, dancer Ed Begley, plans to sue her for divorce.

Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York.

Nick Condos, Miss Raye's manager and one of her ex-husbands, said a process server showed up at a Brooklyn hotel where the comedienne is staying. He said Miss Raye willingly went to the hotel lobby to accept the papers.

In Westport, Conn., a $50,000 alienation of affections suit is pending against Miss Raye. The suit was filed by the wife of a Westport patrolman who once worked for Miss Raye as a bodyguard.

VACATION COMES EARLY

POMONA, Calif. (AP)—Some 1,500 students are beginning their summer vacation a month early because fire destroyed the city's only high school.

The student body left the 35-year-old structure quickly and without any injury Monday when flames swept through its rooms, causing a loss estimated by school officials at $500,000.

Two months ago voters approved a $7,500,000 bond issue, including two million dollars for a new high school in West Pomona.

PLANES QUICKER THAN EYE

OMAHA (AP)—Modern warfare is getting quicker than the eye, says Capt. H. E. Ramsden, optometrist at Strategic Air Command. Two high-speed aircraft, coming out of the clouds half a mile apart, can crash before the pilots can see and recognize the other and turn their planes. He told the Nebraska Optometric Convention.

Atomic Plant Blast Claims Second Life

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—The second of three men injured in an explosion here Monday died today and the third remained in critical condition at a hospital.

A. L. Lyons, 27, Oak Ridge, died of extensive burns and arm and leg injuries suffered in the blast. W. R. Stooksbury, 27, Andersonville, succumbed Monday night to burns and other injuries.

The third victim, G. R. Myers, 26, Oak Ridge, was reported in critical condition. He lost an arm and was burned severely.

Atomic Energy Commission authorities said the explosion, which shook the town of Oak Ridge, originated in a scrap heap of zirconium oxide and zirconium, both non-nuclear materials.

Officials emphasized the salvage yard is about a quarter of a mile from an atomic plant which was not damaged.

An investigation was begun in the area which was roped off after the explosion.

The zirconium, a metal used in nuclear reactors and highly inflammable "for some unknown reason just went boom," an AEC spokesman said.

The blast site was in the old electro-magnetic process plant area. This process for making uranium-235 was declared obsolete several years ago, and the plant dismantled.

LOCK TROUBLE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—When Julius Ramirez' auto trunk lid sprang a leak, Ramirez sprang into the trunk and shut the lid to see if he could spot the trouble from within. Then it occurred to him the key to the automatically-locking lid was in his pocket. Ramirez set up a muffled thump. His wife telephoned police. Police dispatched a Fire Department rescue squad. It's leader, Lt. Harold V. Carleton, instructed Ramirez to drop the key through the spare tire drainhole to the ground, and with it released him. The leak? Ramirez didn't find it.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—A small Italian lad was working out at third base for the White Sox.

"Who's that kid?" someone asked Marty Marion.

"Sam Esposito," replied Slats Marion. "Came out of the service last season to hit .281 for Memphis. Nice little ballplayer."

With that sentence, Manager Marion put the finger on the principal trouble of the clubs trying to stay close enough to the Yankees to make it a race in the American League. They have too many nice little ballplayers, not enough nice big ballplayers.

As the western clubs ended the first eastern swing, the Yankees, led by the pulverizing Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Hank Bauer, had 33 home runs. The Chisox, to name one supposed contender, had five, one by a pinch-hitter, another by a pitcher. No one member of the Chicago party had more than one.

The main reason why the New York club has dominated the junior wheel—and all baseball, for that matter—down through the years is that its front office and scouts are not interested in a youngster unless he can swing the ball from town to town.

The only exception is a superior double-play engineer at shortstop or second base. And with lanky Gil McDougald playing shortstop, every regular in the Bronx batting order is thoroughly capable of swatting the ball out of sight.

The Yankees have more big guys—fellows who belt the ball a fair piece—on their farms than all other AL organizations combined deploy on the parents clubs.

With the Denver branch alone are the veritable giants First Baseman Marv Throneberry, Shortstop Tony Kubek and Outfielders Norm Siebern and Bob Marlyn.

The American Association Bears have the 6-2, 186-pound Ralph Terry, the young pitcher in the chain nearly ready for the big show. Terry turned in a three-hitter in his first outing after having been out with an infected tooth. Mark Freeman, a pitcher Casey Stengel seriously considered retaining this spring, stands 6-5, weighs 203 pounds.

The Yankee brass considers its Throneberry, 6-1 and 190, a much brighter prospect than his outfielding brother, Faye of the Red Sox.

Kubek, 6-2 and 191, is playing plenty of shortstop for Ralph Houk, seems cut out to do the same at Yankee Stadium.

Siebern—6-3, 198—had clinched the left fielding job at the Stadium when he badly injured a knee banging into the wall at St. Petersburg's Al Lang Field. The knee has not responded as well as expected. The St. Louis slugger is still confined to pinch-hitting.

Lou Skizas, the Greek flycatcher the Yanks sent to Eddie Lopat in Richmond, is built like a football player.

The Yankees insist on power and their scouts are good judges of distance.

State Supreme Court Upholds AAU's Life Suspension Of Santee

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Wes Santee's hopes of regaining his amateur status and running in the Olympic Games apparently were crushed Tuesday when the State Supreme Court upheld the lifetime suspension imposed on the great Kansas miler by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Justice Walter A. Lynch, who handed down a ruling after six weeks' deliberation, also rapped the knuckles of amateur officials who seek to capitalize on sports stars.

"He (Santee) has eliminated himself as an amateur athlete," Justice Lynch said, "but not without an assist from some of the guardians of amateur athletics."

The justice added: "Promoters of amateur athletic meets should realize that while Santee, by his conduct, disqualified himself from amateur competition, the fault lies in no small part with them as a class."

"The records show that in their desire for larger gate receipts some promoters have sought to capitalize on the athletic ability of

Tigers Bang Out 13 Hits To Win Over Red Sox 6-3

DETROIT (AP)—Paul Foytack gained his second major league pitching victory as the Detroit Tigers backed him with a 13-hit attack in defeating the Boston Red Sox 6-3 Tuesday.

The 25-year-old right-hander needed a tight relief performance from veteran Steve Gromek, who pitched the eighth and ninth innings and struck out four of the six men he faced.

Willard Nixon was routed after 3 2-3 innings. The Tigers sent 23 men to the plate in the first four innings, scoring five runs on eight hits against Nixon.

Detroit had at least one hit in every inning, and every starter took part in the attack except the slump-ridden Ray Boone.

The game was played in a cold, steady drizzle and only 2,892 fans paid to get in.

Detroit's Al Kaline returned to the lineup after missing two games with a bum shoulder and bad leg and had two singles in four official trips.

Ted Williams, out of the Boston lineup for an extended spell, appeared as a pinch hitter in the seventh and lined out to center.

LET PAYS TO ADVERTISE

ALL GRAINS EXCEPT WHEAT END LOWER

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (U)—All grains except wheat ended lower on the Board of Trade Tuesday but their final prices were a good deal better than those which prevailed an hour before the finish.

Until near the finish the market hadn't been able to show any rallying tendencies, sinking throughout the session on several intense selling squalls. Traders felt short covering partly account for the late rebound.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 higher, corn 1/4 to 3/8 cents lower, oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, rye 1/4-1/2 lower, soybeans 3/4 to 4 cents lower and lead 25 to 42 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Wheat acted better than the rest of the market all day. Even at the worst losses never ran much more than a cent. The late upswing followed issuance of the Weather Bureau's weekly crop report.

This report was not as optimistic about improving crop prospects as many traders had expected it would be. Some further deterioration was noted in the southern and western sections of the Great Plains.

Old crop soybeans ranged through their customary wide price movements. At one time May and July beans had losses running to nearly eight cents. The rebound canceled more than half of this.

Easiness in soybean oil and meal in the cash market was a factor in the shift. Oil sold at 15 1/2 to 15 3/4 cents a pound, off 1/4, and meal at $60.50 to $61.00 a ton, off 1/2.

NEW YORK (U)—The bond market declined Tuesday with rails, industrials and utilities under moderate pressure. Quality investment issues were steady while foreign industrial loans moved up.

U. S. government bonds climbed in the over-the-counter market.

Volume amounted to $4,710,000 par value compared with $4,710,000 Monday.

The selloff was the second blow dealt the market after the Russians Monday announced plans to cut their military establishment.

The declines were attributed by brokers to a Wall Street fear that defense spending in America might be curtailed. At the same time it was pointed out that the Russian statement provided a convenient excuse to sell to those who believed the market vulnerable for such a reaction.

Monday's fall started in the final hour, Tuesday that selling continued at the opening. In the second hour offerings increased.

Even after the worst of the selling passed, prices continued to sink. Meanwhile there were statements from Secretary of State Dulles and from defense chiefs in Washington indicating they weren't even thinking about cutting back American defense efforts.

In the fifth hour the market began to rally and forged ahead with great spirit. Gains were maintained until just before the finish when there was a slight dip.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 50 cents at $184.80. It lost $2.20 Monday. The industrial component of the average was off $1.30, rails were down $1.00, and utilities were off 10 cents.

Volume came to 2,650,000 shares as compared with 2,440,000 Monday.

The American Stock Exchange was lower on volume of 960,000 shares compared with Monday's 1,060,000.

WAVERLY PTA WILL MEET THURSDAY

by music rendered by the Father Singers. The new officers will also be installed.

WAVERLY — Waverly grade school PTA will meet Thursday, May 17, at 8 p. m. (CST). The theme will be "Our Present and Our Future."

The fourth grade, taught by Mrs. Rhea, will lead the pledge of allegiance to the flag, followed

The refreshment committee includes Mrs. Allyn Deatherage, Mrs. John Noble, Mrs. William Robertson, Mrs. Arthur Mayberry and Mrs. Orville Rouland.

Original habitat of the potato is said to have been Peru or Chile, where it grew wild on the high Andes plateau.

"After a few moments we swung off the road, heading toward the spot where we had crossed the river at the best speed we could get out of our horses. We didn't draw rein once until we were on the other side of the river, about half a mile upstream from our camp."

"We broke camp and rolled our packs awkwardly in the darkness. We discarded the fatigue suits piece by piece, as we made our way to The Well. Byrd built a fire and squatted by it, carefully cleaning and oiling his pistol and replacing the exploded cartridge in his clip."

"The sun was just rising the next morning when we were awakened by the sound of a galloping horse. It was Sergeant Keating."

"Your passes are canceled," he told us. "Saddle up and come back with me. A Mexican got murdered on the other side last night and they claim two American soldiers who were visiting his wife shot him."

"Byrd exclaimed in wonder at this news and pointed out that we had spent the night 15 miles from the border, so we couldn't possibly be implicated."

"We never discussed the incident with Keating again."

"Byrd and I kept our mouths shut and kept away from each other as best we could. Many of the men knew of Tim Rafferty's boasts about his Mexican friend, but Tim had been on patrol when it happened and couldn't be suspected. Since we had been on pass that night, many of the men might have suspected us but for one thing: our youth."

"There was a great bustling about in camp on the morning of the third day. The top sergeant issued orders that the troop was to stand a special formation at noon dressed in fatigue clothes."

THE LONG BODY

by Helen McCloy

XXXI
BASIL WILLING shook his head as he read how Hazard and Byrd Cushing rode across the river into Mexico. Then he read on:

"Her house was the first one we came to on the river side of town. There was a veiled light in the window, on our side, when we got near."

"We pulled off the road, walked our horses around to one side to tie them to a fence where-by couldn't be seen by passers-by, then walked around to the front. Byrd knocked on the door."

"It opened almost at once on a low-ceilinged interior lit with the soft yellow glow of an oil lamp, and she stood framed in the doorway looking at us."

"Her eyes rounded and she cried, 'Gringos!' and started to close the door, but Byrd was talking fast in the Mexican lingo we'd both picked up in Arizona as boys, telling her we were Tim Rafferty's friends."

"She no longer looked frightened. She smiled faintly, stepped back and told us to enter quickly. Close to she was neither as young nor as pretty as I had expected."

"She had eyes only for Byrd. The faint smile still curved her lips as she watched him and I knew that I might just as well not be there."

"She asked us to sit down and said in a matter-of-fact tone that she would send her daughter next door for a friend who would entertain me."

"I was young enough to find it utterly shocking when a little barefooted girl about four years old answered her call from another room. I protested that she shouldn't bother, that I'd just have a glass of wine and go."

"But she spoke rapidly to the child without heeding my protests and the little girl nodded and ran to the door."
